

Magma has the capability and capacity to manufacture complete forehearth assemblies for the container glass industry, including forehearth arch blocks, burner blocks, bottom blocks and channels. Additionally, Magma provides a full range of glass expendables, including orifice rings, plunger, feeder tubes and spout bowls.

Our production facilities enable us to accommodate the largest blocks and to machine them to tight tolerances.

In addition, we specialise in the manufacture of precision cast refractories for the float glass industry. Our product range includes roof tiles, hanger bricks and entrance/exit lintel blocks.

We have well-established production facilities in the UK, and production at our new manufacturing plant in Vietnam commenced in Summer 2014. This allows us to manufacture high-quality refractory parts to our usual exacting standards, whilst enabling us to be extremely competitive on price.
